Richard B. Kelly, Tobias A. Keppler,
Samuel H. Levy, Waiter Lindner, Judge

At the conclusion of his speech Paul
M. Herzog, vice-president of the hospital, presented Dr. Jacobi with a silver headed cane on behalf of his hosts.
In the course of his speech of acceptance Dr. Jacobi said that the tribute stirred him deeply.
"It means more to me," he said, "to be honored for my small contribution to the effectiveness of medicine, for the little I have done for institutions founded to

ELEANOR PAINTER A BRIDE.

Resemblance to Wilfrid Douthitt.

Eleanor Painter, comic opera star, was married to Louis Graveure, a concert singer, Tuesday night at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. A Painter, 346 Linden avenue, Brooklyn.

There are many who believe Mr. Graveure to be Wilfrid Douthitt, who played with Miss Painter in "The Lifac Domino" two seasons ago. When the operetta closed its engagement Douthitt sailed for France to fight in the trenches, as he said. Some time later a man perfectly answering Douthitt's description teappeared here, having grown a mustache and a Vandyke beard. He said he was Louis Graveure, a Belgian
